As the kingdom is being usurped the twin heirs are whisked away and brought to separate foster parents. Together with Wyndetta Graegan, the twins grow up and all is well until the prophecy begins to become fulfilled. Ciardha has been looking for the twins and has found them. It has been prophesied that one of them will defeat her. Fortunately they escape from their enemies and together with elves and men, they are brought to safety. Each one needs to go on their own special adventure and endure their own trials and tribulations. They find allies in the strangest places and enemies where they least expect them. They lose the family they thought was theirs and find new and loyal friends. One of the twins will find love and one will be the final hero.

Sara Reinke has written a marvellous fantasy of the highest calibre. Rich in imagery and multi-dimensional characters, the reader is drawn into a world of men, elves, dwarfs and magic. Lavishly written, the plot moves along nicely and is both exciting and emotional. Ms. Reinke creates a masterpiece as she describes her characters, the lay of the land, the magic and the villains. The reader will be held captive while reading wondering which of the twins will be the final catalyst to thwart the plans of the villainess, and the reader will be kept in suspense until the very end. Ms. Reinke has put a lot of emotion into her story and the reader will be crying and cheering with the characters. This reviewer spent a very pleasant afternoon reading this book and will look forward to more from the flourishing pen of Sara Reinke.
